The Project aims to a) provide evidence-based assessment of media performance, b) contribute to improvement of media reporting standards, and c) strengthen media monitoring capacities of Georgia civil society organizations.

2. Objective of the Service

The service is an integral part of the UNDP's project and is requested to redevelop the project's website with the following general characteristics:

4. Provide consultancy and feedback for streamlining site structure and design.

3. Text content: Unlimited number of articles and news may be added to the web site.
4. Images: Images may be attached to individual articles, or aggregated in galleries.
5. Downloads: The web site must comfortably accommodate documents (PDF, ZIP, MSOffice, and other files) into multiple categories. The initial categories include: TV News, TV Talk Shows, Radio, Print Media, and Online Media. A special widget on the prominent place of the first page will list the most recent uploads in these categories. Other categories must be added/modified easily.
6. Charts: The charts functionality is one of the core components of the existing website. The charts data are generated by a separate online data analysis software, then the data is pulled from the MySQL database and displayed on the web site. This data bridging functionality should be provided in the new design. A special widget on the first page will provide a slideshow of the recent charts.
7. Social networks: The web site has to be integrated into the popular social networks, such as Facebook, Twitter, Google+, LinkedIn, etc.

4. Special Considerations

In this case the proposal must carefully examine the template's owners license requirements on the product that is sold (Developer/Extended license) as well as on the removal of the copyright notice (White label license).
