1. General

Title:	Services for optimization of birth certification acquisition processes
Project:	Innovation for Development in Armenia
Duration:	May - August 2017
Country Programme Component:	Fostering Democratic Governance
Location:	Yerevan, Armenia

2. Background

The Armenia UNDP Country Office (CO) has been extending itself to pioneer innovative approaches that meet Armenia's development challenges focusing primarily on the knowledge-based economy. As such, innovations programming at UNDP is primarily citizen-centric. These innovations programmes have coalesced in 'Kolba Lab', the social innovation hub in the heart of UNDP Armenia.

In partnership with the Delegation of the European Union to Armenia, Kolba Lab has initiated a two-year project, focusing at innovation in the Public Sector. Specifically, the project seeks to create more opportunities and mechanisms for citizen engagement and introduce tools and systems for more effective and open governance. In doing so, the project builds a direct collaboration channel between traditional development agents, the Government and the citizenry – creating a shortcut in their communication.

In October 2016 Kolba Lab announced a call for innovative ideas amongst public servants in the Government Staff and the Ministry of Justice. The aim of the call was to apply the experience and knowledge accumulated in the governance system in order to optimize working processes, make public services more participatory and ensure effective feedback and communication mechanisms. While using methodology of traditional idea incubation, the call for proposals was limited to public servants. The call aimed to optimize some governance and business processes by prototyping and testing the ideas received from the public servants.

Overall 23 ideas were submitted by public servants and reviewed by a jury; as a result three projects were identified for implementation.

Authors of the winning ideas received awards and certificates of recognition. UNDP/Kolba Innovations Lab in partnership with the European Union and the Ministry of Justice, will support the projects in idea incubation and implementation phases.

- Analyze and design/redesign the workflows of birth certificate issuance;
- Perform integrity tests to ensure smooth flow of the system;
