TERM OF REFERENCE

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE FOR STRENGTHENING NATIONAL OF RESTRICTION OF HAZARDOUS SUBSTANCES ON PLASTIC BASE INDUSTRIES AND IMPROVING CAPABILITIES OF TESTING LABORATORY

Background

Nowadays, international trade has increased, this are followed by many requirements or regulations in order to protect consumers and also to facilitate trade among countries in the world. Electronic industries play an important role in contributing the Indonesia's GDP. Currently, these industries are facing great demand for domestic and international market opportunities, and severe competition. In the global market, Indonesia's industries have some problem due to strict regulations and technical requirements of imported countries. For instance, electronic equipment (EEE) that are shipped to the European market after the 1st July 2006 must comply with the European Union's RoHS directive. This directive limits the use of six hazardous substances, i.e., four heavy metals: lead (Pb), mercury, cadmium, hexavalent chromium, and two brominated flame retardants: polybrominated biphenyls (PBB), and polybrominated diphenyl ethers (PBDE), with some limited exemptions. The Commission Decision 2005/618/EC of 18 August 2005 established maximum concentration values of 0.1 percent by weight in homogenous materials for lead, mercury, hexavalent chromium, PBB, and PDBE and 0.01 percent by weight in homogenous materials for cadmium. All electrical and electronic products that will be exported to European Union shall comply with this Directive.

To overcome those problems, the electronic industries have to fulfill the requirements especially in the aspect of RoHS regulation. In order to produce good product in term of quality and safety, the product should be processed in accordance with regulations and standards and should be tested during production and its final product. Because of that the present of competent laboratory testing are really required.

Evaluation of capabilities of testing laboratories under MoI, found that PBB and PBDE are not accredited yet and still need improvement in term of capability on as follows :

- Inadequate capability of personnel for PBB and PBDEs testing
- Inadequate of handling and preparation of sample
- Inadequate of test method (calibration, verification and validation) to produce valid data

- Availability of standard reference

To solve those problems, it is required in-depth training programme for PBB and PBDEs testing and use of instrument like GCMS until the PBB and PBDEs parameter are accredited.

Objectives

- Improving personnel competence
- To increase the capability of testing laboratory in order to support RoHS compliant
- To improve the quality testing result to fulfill the requirement of RoHS

Expected output

- Trained personnel on testing capability for PBB and PBDE
- Adopted testing method of PBB and PBDE which meet SNI IEC 62321 : 2015
