Section 5a: Schedule of Requirements and Technical Specifications/Bill of Quantities

Technical Specification for procurement of a Doppler profilograph to measure watercourse profile, flow velocity and water discharge in the rivers and canals

Portable multi-frequency profilograph for measuring watercourse profile, flow velocity and water discharge in the rivers and canals – fast and accurate, suitable for use in extreme flood or draught conditions, with integrated software, built-in data storage and wireless data transfer device. The measurement data shall be available in quantitative and graphic formats, viewed and controlled in real time with laptop and/or mobile device. Instant flow quantity calculation shall be enabled for the measurements executed both from a moving carrier (raft, boat), when the velocity and depth is measured with a horizontal pitch, and for stationary measurements at standard cross-sections, for example, in the presence of ice, islands or other obstacles in the riverbed.

Specific requirements:

- Multi-frequency measurements to ensure high resolution in wide range of depths.
- Vertical beam for more reliable and accurate depth measurement in bathymetry and flow quantity measurement in wide range of depths.
- Smart algorithm, which takes into account the watercourse depth, flow velocity and turbulence to automatically adapt to the measurement conditions and ensure optimal resolution and Doppler measurement scheme, so that the user does not need to set up the measurement mode.
- A microprocessor with data protection to execute the calculations simultaneously both in the device itself and in an external receiving computer, which ensures data protection when the connection is broken.
- Standard 360° compass and 2-axis tilt sensor for improved data reliability due to adjustment of the position of the carrier relative to the water surface.
- Reverberation control up to 70 Hz to reduce noise pollution.
- Bottom tracking function, for high-accuracy tracking of depths and bottom-relative carrier velocity regardless of GPS availability.
- Precise positioning in the conditions of bottom ground movement or other difficult situations.

A flow quantity measurement kit shall include:

- an acoustic Doppler profilograph
- a floating device
- a tablet PC.
