Electronic Cash Transfer Service (Mobile Money) to the beneficiaries of UNDP's Cash for Work Programme in Selected Villages of MraukU, Rathedaung, Pauktaw, and Ponnagyun townships of Rakhine State, Myanmar

Project title: Inclusive Development and Empowerment of Women in Rakhine State

1) Background

Rakhine State has received significant attention by national and international actors due to the ongoing challenges the State faces, related to the socioeconomic situation of the population, weak economic infrastructure and production, its vulnerability to natural disasters and climate change, and, periodically (in 2012, 2016 and 2017) ethnic tensions and violence. The recent surges in violence have led to significant numbers of internally displaced people (IDP).

Although support to Rakhine State currently tends to be largely framed as part of a humanitarian response, it needs to be emphasized that the current crisis occurs against the background of chronic poverty, longstanding and structural inequalities, including on the basis of gender, ethnicity and religion and protracted ethno-political conflict. Therefore, a humanitarian response needs to be combined with a developmental approach that addresses the key issues of poverty, vulnerability, exclusion, and state-society and inter-communal conflict.

The Immediate Livelihoods Recovery through Cash for Work Interventions is an activity part of the wider framework of UNDP – UN Women Joint Programme “Inclusive Development and Empowerment of Women in Rakhine State”, supporting the Government of Myanmar and the Rakhine State Government in addressing community priorities and needs through inclusive and responsive service-delivery, improved access to justice and increased livelihoods and peacebuilding opportunities. With the overarching objective of restoring social cohesion, it specifically aims to improve livelihoods stabilization of target communities and institutions, through providing immediate temporary employment and income generating opportunities.

Cash for work is among the key Activities of the project aimed at rehabilitation and reconstruction of critical lifelines and basic socio-economic community infrastructures, as an entry to stimulate positive inter-communities and institutions' interactions to restore and improve social cohesion.

Target locations include the villages and internally displaced people (IDP) camps within the townships of MraukU, Rathedaung, Pauktaw, and Ponnagyun, where each location will consist of 20-25 villages/ camps and host villages, with a total estimated population of 2000 to 2500 families. The Activity will target all groups of different ethnic and religious background, emphasizing on (i) communities with presence of returnees and relocated IDPs, (ii) host communities surrounding IDPs camps, and (iii) IDPs living in camps.
