1. PROJECT DESCRIPTION

A. Background

The Ministry of Telecommunication and Digital Infrastructure and UNDP, together with the Information and Communication Technology Agency of Sri Lanka (ICTA) and the National Youth Services Council, initiated the National Youth Social Innovation Challenge, which builds on UNDP's existing innovation challenge, HackaDev. This joint initiative contributes towards achieving government of Sri Lanka's vision to build a digitally empowered nation. Further, young people will be empowered to generate innovative solutions to development challenges through improved engagement and participation in an ICT enabled society.

The overarching objective of the National Youth Social Innovation Challenge is to provide a platform, link and empower young people to generate innovative solutions to development challenges. The key outcomes for the project are, sustainable solutions for identified development challenges, community of youth created to continue the promotion of innovative solutions by youth and trigger and inspire further partnerships to advocate for social entrepreneurship.

Following three successful pilots since 2015, and a fully-fledged programme in 2017, the 2018 Innovation Challenge process is carefully crafted programme with multiple phases including the ideation, idea audition, Social Innovation Camps and the Support to further development phase which is relevant to this TOR. Ideas were sought under two categories – the open challenge and the thematic challenge (for pre-identified problems) through a public call for applications.

Three Social Innovation Camps will be carried out with the participation of 15 teams each from all over the island and a total of 9 selected teams are to be selected to be eligible for seed funding and go through an incubation programme. The Social Innovation Camp phase is conducted following two previous phases, namely the ideation and activation phase with 25 programmes around the country to where they were mentored by local and international social innovation expertise. 9 teams selected under the open challenge category require the disbursement of seed funding, monitoring and evaluation and further development support.

The purpose of the seed funding phase is not limited to the provision of financial incentive to the selected teams to develop their ideas. The phase intends to ignite the journey of the selected ideas towards full implementation or becoming a sustainable enterprise with social impact. This is one of the most important phases of the National Youth Social Innovation Challenge as it is through the successful completion of this phase, can the initiative showcase results pertaining to its outcome of creating solutions to development challenges while creating a pool of entrepreneurs that can further ignite and inspire innovation and entrepreneurship in young people.
