Technical Requirements

The objective of this ITB consists in the supply and delivery of a single mobile shredder to process/downsize mixed debris arisen particularly from Hurricane Irma's landfall in Barbuda in September 2017.

The resulting shredded material is to be used for following purposes:

- Wood and timber to be used as chippings for park / green space management or in composting;
- Galvanised roofing sheets to be downsized for export for scrap; and
- Mixed debris downsized for more efficient landfill disposal.

The ITB offers interested bidders the option to bid towards Lot 1 or Lot 2 (or both), according to requirements specified in above tables, under section 5a. UNDP will evaluate bids for both, new and refurbished options, however final awarding of contract will be based on budget availability.

Three main types of mixed debris are present in Barbuda: wood/timber (estimated at 40%), galvanized roofing sheets (estimated at 40%) and mixed general debris (estimated at 20%). A total of ca. 120,000 tons is to be initially shredded from the recent disaster and related recovery activities on the island and more mixed debris may be expected as a result of future natural disasters, predicted to increase because of climate change patterns.

The technical requirements for both Lots are the following:

- Shredder needs to be diesel-operated
- Shredder is to be used to downsize mixed debris generated from debris management activities as well as rehabilitation works since the landfall of Irma.

- The needed capacity of the shredder is ca. 30 tones/hour for processing the mixed debris
- The shredder needs to be mobile for relocating at different sites within the island of Barbuda, ideally drawn by pick-up truck or other vehicle, as well as transported between the sister islands of Antigua and Barbuda by cargo ferry.
- The shredder is to be a completely self-contained unit including own power supply (diesel engine) and all other necessary equipment required to operate as a shredder.

Please note that:

- The Bidder submitting a bid for the provision of the specified goods and services is required to advise on the extent to which mixed debris can be shredded or whether such debris is to be sorted prior to shredding.
- The Bidder is at liberty to propose the type of shredder most appropriate for the indicated reality and needs by taking into account the requirements as defined in this ITB document.
- The Bidder will be required to provide on-site training of the selected shredder operators for the shredder provided in the temporary dumpsite located in Codrington, Barbuda, utilizing at least 200 tons of mixed debris ready for processing as part of this training.

Please refer to Section 5b for warranty, installation and maintenance requirements.
