1. BACKGROUND

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development recognizes the important role youth play in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), and calls for action against the challenges faced by young people that limits their economic, social and political inclusion. Approximately 300 million young people are either unemployed or underemployed, leaving nearly half of the 700 million young people in a state of economic insecurity. In addition, most often, young people are left out of the decision-making processes, which further exacerbates their marginalization and exclusion.

By developing young people's 21st century skills, and by catalyzing and sustaining youth-led startups and social enterprises across the Asia Pacific region, Youth Co:Lab is positioning young people front and center in order to solve the region's most pressing challenges. In addition to supporting youth entrepreneurship, Youth Co:Lab also works closely with multiple stakeholders, including governments, civil society and the private sector, to strengthen the entrepreneurship ecosystem and to promote policies that will support and enable young people to take the lead in finding and developing new solutions for social and environmental problems in their communities.

The ASEAN region is one of the largest economic zones in the world. But at the same time, corruption and weak governance are also of concern in the region. According to the 2017 ASEAN Business Outlook Survey conducted by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the majority of businesses in the region (65 percent) listed corruption, unfair and inefficient law enforcement practices as a major challenge of doing business in the ASEAN countries. In this context, enterprises of all sizes need to take incremental steps to mainstream good governance practices within their overall business strategies and operations and thus become responsible partners in achieving the SDGs.

Standards and compliance can challenge ingrained traits of corruption in many contexts and provide systems of checks and balances. Larger enterprises have the capacity to adhere to business integrity standards and regulations. However, Micro, Small-and Medium-sized Enterprises (MSMEs), who play a significant role in the ASEAN economy, often struggle to comply with these regulations and standards. Services and initiatives supporting MSMEs and startups in issues of business integrity are scarce. Thus, there is a pressing need for engaging enterprises from the early stages to strengthen their capacities to comply and contribute to a more transparent business environment.

To bridge that gap, UNDP, will bring together two regional initiatives: “Promoting Fair Business Environment in ASEAN” and “Regional Youth Project on Leadership, Social Innovation and Entrepreneurship - Youth Co:Lab”, to introduce a new service line for young entrepreneurs, that supports the development and implementation of solutions for business integrity and governance in the startup ecosystem.

The objective of this initiative is to train a cohort of young entrepreneurs from the Youth Co:Lab movement in ASEAN countries, increasing their capacity to 1) understand the importance of addressing integrity and good governance practices as part of their business models; 2) adopt business integrity and good governance practices to minimize any risks (reputational or economic) associated with the business environment in which they are operating and 3) identify collective initiatives at the regional and country level aimed at strengthening business integrity and transparency and the overall business environment in the ASEAN region.

This joint initiative will convene members from the Youth Co:Lab community and ecosystem partners from 6 ASEAN countries to participate in a Workshop on Business Integrity and Responsible Business Practices in the Startup Ecosystem in ASEAN in August 2019. The Workshop will be guided by the first draft of an Interactive Toolkit that will be piloted during the workshop and finalized with inputs from participants.

Given that startups in ASEAN (as in many emerging economies) are frequently confronted with the problem of bribery, the training will primarily focus on counter-bribery principles and practices. Other areas, such as business ethics, conflict of interest, and anti-harassment to promote diversity and non-discriminatory practices will also be considered.
