TERM OF REFERENCE

Background

Inspired by the global UNDP strategy which demands for responsibilities and tasks to be managed with leaner team, more cost-effective and cost efficient ways, the Operations team of UNDP Indonesia proposes to develop a new tool to ensure timely and accurate cost recovery from the services provided their internal and external clients.

The Operations team in UNDP Indonesia has made a significant contribution as income generator for the CO through cost recovery for services provided to other UN agencies. Based on recent roll-out of new concept of Direct Project Costing Policy (DPC), the CO now can recover charges from the provision of services not only from the UN agencies, but also from the implementation of Universal and Local Price List (UPL) against the full range of services to Project Management units (PMU). However, at the moment there is no corporate tool available to support implementation of DPC effectively without adding current workload to the team.

There has been development of various tool in corporate and CO level, however it was not integrated as one tool to support implementation of the new DPC method starting from receiving online request from client, recording transaction with multi charge of accounts, sending automated billing, providing dashboard for client to monitor progress service delivery in line with agreed Service Level Agreement (SLA), providing linkage of database with prevailing ATLAS web based system and recording online feedback from client for future improvement of the team. Current billing system in CO level should be enhanced to avoid further backlogs of staff workload due to labor-intensive work from manual transaction processing staff which has led to potential human error.

Scope of applications

To ensure that the new DPC methodology works effective and efficient, there should be a reliable tool which can record all transactions with 100 percent accuracy and at the same time able to demonstrate ability of Operations team to do accountable business with measurable delivery of quality service by provision of the following:

- automated billing service and report
- dashboard to monitor progress service delivery of service in line with agreed Service Level Agreement (SLA)
- workload distribution tool to help managing queries from clients
- Interconnection between online request, tracking delivery, billing ATLAS system
- Online feedback systems which enable client give input for improvement.
- Able to upload supporting documents and can be part of e-storage for documents related to providing services.

It is expected that upon review of the effectiveness of the tool, the system can be used by other UNDP Country offices and allows for a standardized web-application to be provided for non-traditional clients, e.g. entity other than UNDP.

Based on above, scope of application should be able to support:

1. Country Indonesia (it involves requesting unit, service unit, their supervisors and monitoring system).
2. Other Country Offices globally.
3. Linkages to other applications such as ATLAS and other application (if any) will be based on softcopy output produced by One-Gate-Service. This linkages will only be available through assistance from Global ATLAS support team

Application Protocols

1. This application will be developed in a format of a PHP-web-database.
2. The application will be hosted at a commercial hosting company that is approved by UNDP. The hosting company should have an excellent internet bandwidth and high availability of the application.
3. This system has to be able to track service requests within Country Offices registered under this application.
4. Focal point of each Country Office should able to administer their own portfolio in managing service requests such as but not limiting to maintaining service list, creating/updating workflow for each service, produce reports/query.
5. The application will be fully managed by assigning focal point who will be responsible in supporting other Country Offices to launch and manage this application.
6. Annual UN holidays will be incorporated to this application in managing services.
7. UNDP corporate Universal Price List (UPL)(global price) and extended UPL (for locally made price) will be used as a basis for service charges embedded in this application
8. Monthly and annual data under the application can be backup either manually and automatically. This task will be a responsibility of the focal point of each country office.

Workflows for each business process and list of standard Charge of Account will be shared by UNDP team as supporting document to develop system during implementation

Scope of work

1. The vendor should develop application according to the agreed TOR.
2. The application should be developed within the agreed time frame. For any late delivery, vendor will receive penalty as 2% per week but up to maximum 10%.
3. Vendor should perform testing and commissioning before it is handed over.
4. Once the handed over is completed, three months after handling over is considered as testing period. During testing, UNDP has a right to perform adjustment on application according to the finding during the testing. Any revisions and software patches should be performed during the implementation.
5. All types of documentation should be in English. UNDP will review the documentation before it considered as a final documentations.
6. All documentations, source of program and application contents will be a property of UNDP.
7. Vendor has to perform training to three different groups of users which are Administrator, requestors and service unit.

Deliverable output.

The following outputs should be handed over from vendor to UNDP:

1. A web-base application which is developed according to the UNDP requirements.
2. A source programs of the application.
3. A good quality of technical documentation which explain technically how this application is developed and correlation between databases.
4. Installation manual and training to the administrator on how to perform installation.
