1. BACKGROUND

Since 2008, UNDP has been working closely with local authorities (municipal council members, mukhtars, etc.) from all six governorates across Lebanon to support community based peacebuilding through facilitating processes entailing capacity building programmes in peacebuilding, conflict resolution and mediation skills. Since 2011, the focus has been on longer term approaches, assisting local communities in jointly planning and establishing local level peacebuilding mechanisms and dialogue initiatives. Local actors include those sensitized to peacebuilding concepts, participants in dialogue sessions and several of the Project's networks including youth, religious leaders, NGOs, mukhtars, municipal council members and educators. The purpose of this work was to develop initiatives to diffuse tensions that may arise in the communities before they escalate to a higher level.

In 2013, the repercussion of Syrian refugees' influx has expanded to most of the Lebanese communities. Signs of different types of conflict between Lebanese and Syrians have become clear in many Lebanese host communities, varying based on the respective regions' social and economic context. Citizens and municipalities are left alone to deal with its implications, with no guidance or capacity to differentiate between the political and humanitarian aspect related to the impact of the Syrian crisis on host communities. The municipalities are suffering from the overload and are facing many challenges when it comes to managing the situation at the local level whether at the crisis management level, the communication level or the conflict one. UNDP and through its new "Stabilization and Recovery Programme" is addressing the new challenges caused by the impact of the Syrian crisis on Lebanese host communities through working on three sectors: basic services, livelihood and social cohesion/stability. Under the last sector and through the Peace Building in Lebanon Project, an initiative for improving social cohesion/stability in Lebanese host communities impacted by the Syrian crisis was launched.

During this phase of the project, the Peace Building in Lebanon project will continue working in four governorates: Akkar, Bekaa, South and Nabatiyeh, where a high number of Syrian refugees are living and the risk of tension is high and where UNDP is also working on livelihood and basic services. The villages / municipalities targeted are among the most vulnerable communities identified jointly by the UN and the Lebanese government.

For this particular Terms of Reference, the project will work on empowering local authorities and local actors through establishing mechanisms for social stability (MSS) in the South, one of the most affected regions and one of the largest community hosting Syrian refugees.

Focus shall be around the eight villages of Addousiyyeh, Bablieh, Kharayeb Saida, Saida el Qadimeh, Lebbaa, Kfar Jarra, Seddiqin, Maaroub and work shall be directed towards creating a local peacebuilding body aimed at supporting Lebanese-host communities' social stability through preventing or reducing tensions and different type of conflicts between Lebanese communities themselves and between Lebanese and Syrians.

The overall objective of the assignment is to support local authorities and other local key actors in the identified areas to better manage the current crisis, and better respond to the additional challenges resulted from the impact of the Syrian crisis on them, through establishing a medium to long term locally oriented social stability/cohesion strategy. This strategy will identify the guiding principles; through which local communities can better manage their internal conflicts as well as those resulted from the impact of the Syrian crisis.

Under the guidance and supervision of the Project Manager, the consultant is required to conduct a participatory conflict assessment and analysis with a specific identified reference group of the local community representing the villages/municipalities (mayors, deputy mayors, municipal council members, mukhtars, social development centers, religious figures, educators, civil society organizations, youth and other types of stakeholders identified) targeted by the process, in order to identify the main causes of the conflict, actors, dynamics, etc.

The consultant will then develop relevant responses to the main causes of conflicts that will serve as mechanisms for social stability.

Finally, the consultant will support the actors, through capacity building (on identified needs, such as, but not limited to: crisis management, peacebuilding and conflict resolution/mediation skills, communication skills, advocacy and lobbying, administrative and financial management) adopting the mechanisms and launching them.
