Developing the Country Gender Profile of Georgia and the Issue Briefs on Gender Statistics

Geographic coverage: Georgia

Duration:

5 months, throughout 23 September 2019 – 24 February 2020

Background:

United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN Women), grounded in the vision of equality enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, works for the elimination of discrimination against women and girls; the empowerment of women; and the achievement of equality between women and men as partners and beneficiaries of development, human rights, humanitarian action and peace and security. As part of the UN-wide investment in supporting UN Member States to translate global human rights norms and standards into national policies, actions and results, UN Women's Strategic Plan (2018-2021) commits to increased national-level knowledge and strengthened national systems to monitor international, regional and national commitment to gender equality and women's empowerment (GEWE).

The adoption of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development requires accelerated efforts of the UN Member States to measure progress towards the Agenda's accompanying Sustainable Goals (SDGs) and targets. Measuring progress towards gender equality and women's empowerment (GEWE) is seen as central for achieving of all 17 SDGs.

In 2016 the Government of Georgia (GoG) has embarked as, one of the first, on the process of nationalization/ localization of SDGs. The GoG and key stakeholders have identified through nation-wide participatory process priority SDG targets and indicators that represent a combination of global and local/ national targets (100) and indicators (215). Of the 54 gender-related global indicators,<sup>1</sup> 30 have been fully transposed, 9 were considered either not relevant or not considered for absence of data, and the remaining 18 global gender-related indicators have been adapted to the local context. Already in 2016, in the first voluntary national reporting on progress towards SDGs (VNR), availability of high-quality data has been identified as key challenge. Lack of regular disaggregated data collection, application of international methodology for data collection, and lack of national capacities for data analysis have been pinpointed as main barriers.

To address these challenges and to strengthen national capacities, several UN Agencies and other development partners have been providing technical support to the National Statistical Office (GEOSTAT), and other parts of the National Statistical System. UN Women has been systematically working with GEOSTAT and selected line ministries since 2014 to improve the capacities for production and dissemination of sex-disaggregated data, published bi-annually in GEOSTAT’s “Women and Men in Georgia”; In December 2018, with UN Women support GEOSTAT also launched an on-line Gender Data Portal available at: <http://gender.geostat.ge/index.php?lang=en>. This Gender Data Portal provides up to date gender quantitative data, covering several sectors, and linked to nationalized SDG gender-related indicators. In addition, to ensure a wide dissemination and use of data, UN Women has been supporting user-producer dialogues that inform different stakeholders and contribute to evidence-based advocacy and / or policy making. In 2017 UN Women supported the nation-wide Study on Violence Against Women (2017) that provided a baseline data for 11 SDG nationalized indicators. In 2019, UN Women has also rendered technical support for calculation of gender wage gap that informs SDG5 and SDG8 targets and carried out the gender assessment of the National Statistical System to identify the gaps in data and capacities, that further informs technical support to national partners to enhance production and utilization of gender data.

While there has been some improvement of quantitative sex-disaggregated gender statistics, a comprehensive in-depth analysis on the status of men and women based on both, quantitative and qualitative data is missing. Hence, UN Women Country Offices (COs) are required by the UN Women Strategic Plan 2018-2021 develop Country Gender Profiles (CGPs), that would serve different purposes, including strengthening national understanding and data on the advancement of national, regional and international commitments to GEWE; support national (SDG, CEDAW, UPR, etc.) monitoring process; inform national planning and budget allocations; and contribute to the new cycles of the UN Sustainable Development Cooperation Frameworks (UNSDCFs) and preparation of the Common Country Analysis (CCA).

As stated, the improvement of gender statistics is not necessarily reflected on increased public awareness of gender data. Furthermore, the policy practitioners and activists often fail to understand and use the available evidence on gender equality. Hence, based on the data included in the CGP report UN Women plans to develop the targeted issue briefs – one-pagers that focus on specific thematic areas of gender equality (e. g. the Gender Pay Gap, the Prevalence of the Gender-based Violence) and provide the short description of the exiting data combined with the infographics and other data visualization techniques for easy comprehension.

In this context, UN Women is hiring a company, think-tank, academic institution or the civil society organization specialized in quantitative and qualitative gender analysis to conduct an in-depth gender assessment report to inform on the state of gender equality within the country and develop the targeted issue briefs on gender equality.

The first stage of the assignment will involve undertaking a desk review, resulting in an Issue Paper (20 pages maximum), which will survey existing gender analysis, country reports, and identify and analyze the recently released gender disaggregated data in close partnership with GEOSTAT. The Issue Paper will set the baseline and reference point to be further developed into the CGP. The second stage of the assignment will lead to the development of the CGP based on the Issue Paper. CGP will contain not only up-to-date sex disaggregated data and analysis from the Issue Paper, but also findings and recommendations from the qualitative part of the research (interviews; focus groups) and suggest practical recommendations for acceleration of Gender Equality and Women’s Empowerment (GEWE) for different stakeholders and development partners.

A nuanced qualitative analysis will be the core of the CGP, which will set it apart from other reports on the status of men and women that the GEOSTAT, the government, Public Defender’s Office, development partners, CSOs or other national partners may have produced, because it will provide:

- In-depth analysis of political, economic and social situation in the country framed against international GEWE norms, standards and commitments (including the 2030 agenda and SDGs, the Convention on the Elimination of all forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), the Beijing Declaration and the Platform of Action (PFA) and the outcome documents of its 25th anniversary review);
- Analysis of priority policies and their impact on men and women both at macro and micro level;
- Analysis of specific GEWE policies, the institutional and legal mechanisms, their implementation, bottlenecks, accelerators and impact, specifically on marginalized and socially excluded groups;
- Analysis of the National Gender Equality Machinery (NGEM) and other national actors (line ministries, CSOs, the private sector, trade unions, academia etc.) and their role in shaping GEWE policies;

The issue briefs will be the last part of the analysis and they will be derived from the final CGP contents.

Scope of the work:

Overall the Country Gender Equality Profile will assist in integrating and mainstreaming gender concerns for maximum impact on gender equality and key development priorities as defined in relevant national strategies and plans and international agreements.

The objective of this call is to undertake an in-depth, action oriented (recommendations for various stakeholders) gender assessment of Georgia, consisting of three steps, in particular:

- an Issue Paper (max 20 pages) which will survey existing gender analyses, country reports, and most recently released gender disaggregated data. The Issue Paper will serve as a basis for CGP;
- a full-fledged CGP (max 40 pages plus annexes), with 3 pages (max) of the executive summary.
- Up to 10 issue briefs, one and two pagers on thematic areas identified in consultation with UN Women;

The suggested methodology, format and content of Issue Paper that and consequent CGP, which will be refined and finalized as part of the selected Contractor’s deliverables is as follows:

a) Methodology

The methodology should combine desk review, analysis of the quantitative data (resulting in the Issue Paper), expanded with qualitative analysis - focus group discussions / meetings with relevant stakeholders, interviews and a consultative workshop (resulting in the final CGP). More specifically, to deliver on the expected output, the Contractor supported by relevant UN Women staff will:

- Draft and finalize the proposed CGP methodology and outline content (including an outline of the Issue Paper) in consultation with the CGP reference group consisting of UN Women, selected Gender Theme Group (GTG) members, GEOSTAT, Gender Equality Council (parliament), the Interagency Commission for GEWE, VAW and DV (PM’s Office), Gender Equality Department of the Public Defender’s Office and relevant experts from the ministries / parts of the National Statistical System;

- Collect and review gender disaggregated statistical data and gender assessment/analysis conducted by development partners, governmental and public institutions, universities, independent experts and civil society organizations, including those recommended by members of GTG;
- Review development partners interventions (key UN and donor funded projects) and their contribution to the closing of identified gender gaps, including research reports, and sector analysis;
- Review gender policies and strategic plans of the sectors and identify their contribution to gender equality (in close consultations with the findings and outcomes of UN MAPs mission);
- Develop the final draft of Issue Paper that will serve as the foundation for the CGP;
- Based on the loopholes / data needs identified through Issue Paper conduct in-depth interviews with identified members of key Government departments and institutions, development partners and other key stakeholders, including civil society organizations and universities, aiming to identify gender disparities, challenges, opportunities and good practices;
- In consultations with UN Women organize focus groups with key stakeholder's groups including, but not limited to the representatives of CSOs, associations of rural women, women entrepreneurs, community leaders and women – the beneficiaries of UN Women social mobilization initiative, with strong emphasis on Leave No One Behind (LNOB) principle;
- Conduct a workshop to discuss with relevant stakeholders the preliminary findings of CGP and its recommendations and integrate comments into final draft of CGP;
- Finalize the CGP and submit it to UN Women;
- In cooperation with UN Women Identify the thematic areas of up to ten one and/or two-pager issue briefs and develop them;
- Carry out any other work-related tasks identify through the process, agreed upon with UN Women;

a) Suggested format and content of CGP

CGP should be a document of 40 pages maximum plus annexes, detailing all above-mentioned information with all official statistics disaggregated by sex. This document should contain an analysis of the current situation, gaps, challenges, opportunities, and recommended actions, and contain an executive summary 3 pages maximum, which will present the statistics disaggregated by sex on the gender situation in Georgia. The content should be formulated (and refined as part of the Contractor's deliverables following consultations with the key stakeholders) along these lines:

equality. Both CEDAW and the Beijing Platform for Action emphasize the need to redress formal and informal barriers to women's full and equal enjoyment of human rights, and to ensure that women benefit equally from the three dimensions of sustainable development: economic, social and environmental. CEDAW, adopted in 1979, is commonly known as the international bill of human rights for women. It defines what constitutes discrimination against women and sets out an agenda for national action to end such discrimination. CEDAW underscores the need to go beyond formal equality or "equality of treatment" to achieve substantive equality or "equality of outcomes". This broader understanding of equality recognizes the structural, cumulative and historical nature of gender inequality, which results in women being unable to enjoy their rights in practice, even when they are equal before the law.

Building on CEDAW and other human rights frameworks, the 1995 Fourth World Conference on Women and its outcome document, the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action called for strategic action to advance gender equality, the empowerment of women and the realization of women and girl's human rights across 12 critical areas of concern: poverty; education and training; health; violence; armed conflict; economy; power and decision-making; institutional mechanisms; human rights; media; environment; and the girl child. Like the 2030 Agenda, the Platform for Action clearly articulates the synergistic relationship among gender equality, sustainable development and peace." Source: UN Women and UNESCAP. Report of the Asian and Pacific Conference on Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment: Beijing+20 Review, Bangkok 17–20 November 2014.

has developed some 113 BPfA indicators, per each thematic area, some of which coincide with SDG indicators, please visit - <https://eige.europa.eu/gender-statistics/dgs/browse/bpfa> - please consult this set of indicators, plus all 54 global SDG Gender indicators available and explained in UN Women global publication “Turning Promises into Action” available on-line at: <https://www.unwomen.org/en/digital-library/publications/2018/2/gender-equality-in-the-2030-agenda-for-sustainable-development-2018#view> - while mapping out and reflecting on these indicators, please also report on the availability of data and relevant gaps.

Sub-section i. Women, poverty and social exclusion should include an analysis of the specific groups that have been left behind or are at risk of being left behind from a gender equality and women’s empowerment point of view, analyzing the interplay of various factors causing and reinforcing inequality and discrimination (so called intersectionality of discrimination). Please analyze barriers and challenges facing these groups as well as underlying and root causes of risks and social exclusion. Identify the gaps in data, capacities and processes that should be supported, resourced and enabled in order to monitor the situation of groups identified with leave-no-one-behind lenses.

c. POLICY, INSTITUTIONAL AND LEGAL FRAMEWORKS regarding GEWE

- i. Policy Environment
- ii. Institutional Framework
- iii. Legal Framework
- iv. Key Stakeholders and Strategic Partnerships

Further guidance: This section should also present an analysis of how gender equality and women’s empowerment agenda is featuring in the country’s key development priorities and needs, as reflected in the national development strategy, related sectorial strategies, policies and programmes, as well as the national roadmap for SDG implementation and consultations with the government partner. The UN MAPs outcome document will be a good source to use here as it showed that gender is very low on the government’s agenda if one looks at sectorial development policies and even the EU AA.

Please also note that BPfA section H. Institutional Mechanism as well as section I. Human Rights of Women will be covered in this part of the document.

d. - The offer is complete and eligible.

2. Cumulative Analysis Methodology: A proposal is selected on the basis of cumulative analysis; the total score is obtained by combining technical and financial attributes.

A two-stage procedure will be utilized in evaluating the proposals; the technical proposal will be evaluated with a minimum pass requirement of 490 of the obtainable 700 points assigned for technical proposal. A proposal shall be rejected at this stage if it fails to achieve the minimum technical threshold of 490 of the obtainable score of 700 points prior to any price proposal being opened and compared. The financial proposal will be opened only for those entities whose technical proposal achieved the minimum technical threshold of 490 of the obtainable score of 700 points and are determined to be compliant. Non-compliant proposals will not be eligible for further consideration.

The total number of points (“maximum number of points”) which a firm/institution may obtain for its proposal is as follows:

Technical proposal: 700

Financial proposal: 300

Total number of points: 1000

Evaluation of financial proposal:

In this methodology, the maximum number of points assigned to the financial proposal is allocated to the lowest price proposal. All other price proposals receive points in inverse proportion.

A formula is as follows:

$$p = y (\mu/z)$$

Where:

p = points for the financial proposal being evaluated

y = maximum number of points for the financial proposal

μ = price of the lowest priced proposal

z = price of the proposal being evaluated

The contract shall be awarded to the proposal obtaining the overall highest score after adding the score of the technical proposal and the financial proposal.

Evaluation of technical proposal:

The technical proposal is evaluated and examined to determine its responsiveness and compliancy with the requirements specified in this solicitation documents. The quality of each technical proposal will be evaluated in accordance with the following technical evaluation criteria and the associated weighting (total possible value of 700 points):
