I. BACKGROUND

Project Description
Indonesia has continued its efforts to prevent and eliminate corruption and to build effective institutions to ensure transparent governance and achieve Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Based on Corruption Perception Index (CPI) released by Transparency International 2018, Indonesia has been going in the right direction. Over the span of five years, Indonesia has moved up five points from rank 118 in 2012 to rank 96 in 2017, making Indonesia on par with Thailand among the ASEAN countries, below Singapore and Malaysia, but above Vietnam and the Philippines. Moreover, Indonesia’s commitment and effort in preventing and mitigating corruption have been seen through the work of Indonesia’s Corruption eradication Commission (KPK), which has investigated over 1,000 cases and prosecuted 669 cases since 2004.

Despite the progress, the country still faces challenges in combating corruption, which in particular are influenced by the lack of synergy among ministries, institutions, local governments and other relevant stakeholders. To address this issue, the Government of Indonesia (GOI) started the process of formulating a National Strategy on Corruption Prevention (“NSCP”) in 2018. This year in July 2018, Indonesia issued the national strategy on corruption prevention through Presidential Regulation No. 54 of 2018, with three focus areas of 1) licensing and trade orders, 2) state finance management, and 3) law enforcement and bureaucratic reform. Subsequently, to implement the strategy, the Corruption Prevention Act was issued in November 2018.

UNDP Indonesia has initiated a collaboration with the GOI to support the implementation of the NSCP. Through the project Supporting Prevention and Elimination of Corruption in Indonesia (SPEC), UNDP aims to support GOI in (1) assuring a solid policy and regulatory basis for its anti-corruption programme; (2) ensuring clear and effective institutional arrangements to implement the policy; (3) establishing a monitoring and reporting framework to guide the implementation of the new strategy. The project is in line with UNDP’s comparative advantage that aims to promote development through supporting good governance and good public management. It complements and cooperates with UNODC as a UN agency engaged in addressing corruption, as well as with other development partners (DPs).

II. SCOPE OF WORK, ACTIVITIES, AND DELIVERABLES

Scope of Work
Under the guidance and direct supervision of the Technical Officer of DGPRU, the consultant is responsible for providing technical assistance for implementing Supporting Prevention and Elimination of Corruption in Indonesia (SPEC) project, particularly technical assistance to the Joint Secretariat to strengthen the organisation and staffing of the Secretariat based on the provisions of the Strategic Plan. A capacity assessment will be undertaken to look at the existing capacity and identify any gaps that would require a set of capacity building measures. The consultant also provide technical assistance in designing the coordination mechanism through a series of consultations with key stakeholders. S/he will also help formulate guidelines, SOPs and templates for organisations involved in implementing the program. The guidelines and SOPs will be developed to ensure that mandate, functions and structure provide clear reference for the coordination among entities involved in implementing the new policy. Particular attention will be given to guidelines for teams working in entities and for joint teams where more than one entity is involved in an initiative of the
