1. BACKGROUND

Geographic diversity of the country has given a good opportunity of growing a great volume of fruit and vegetables in Nepal. With the support from the government and development partners, the productivity has been doubled for both fruit and vegetables in the last 20 years. However, marketed volumes of fruit and vegetables are still low compared to the national demand, which has led to a growing food trade deficit. Farmers’ access to optimal production practices, efficient crop handling, extent of postharvest losses and adequate market infrastructure etc. are not sufficiently addressed so far. In this context, the Value Chain Development of Fruit and Vegetables Project (VCDP), the joint initiative of Ministry of Agriculture and Livestock Development (MoALD), United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and Korean focuses on increasing production, reducing postharvest losses, and improving market linkages for increased incomes of 10,000 farmers from 180-200 pocket areas along the BP highway, Prithivi Highway and East -West Highway of Province 3 and Gandaki Pradesh.
