Annex 1 Technical Specifications

Support to FSM Congress for Virtual Sessions

Background Summary

With the declaration of COVID-19 as a Pandemic, the federal Government of Federated States of Micronesia imposed travel restrictions prohibiting flights in and out of the country while also imposing other precautionary measures. The state governments followed the suit and imposed their own travel bans limiting the intra state travel as well. Amid this, the federal government prepared a stimulus package to respond to socio-economic needs emerging out of the situation, including improving country's health response. However, the government required approval of the Congress to ensure that they could implement the actions. But the travel bans limited Congress's 14 senators from travel to the Pohnpei the federal capital and the seat of the FSM Congress. The Congress however investigated alternatives and decided to move for the virtual sessions. With support from UNDP, Congress adopted the changes to its rules and technological solutions to convene a virtual session. Accordingly, Congress became the first Pacific Congress to organize a virtual session which ran for 10 days and resulted in approval of a multi-million-dollar package.

While it remained successful, the session also served as a pilot for the FSM Congress, and based on the lessons learnt it wants to upscale its hardware and software to allow better quality of videoconference during the virtual sessions. In this regard, the Congress has identified several software and hardware requirements.

Work to be performed by FSM Congress.

While Congress dealt with the most urgent legislation, namely the stimulus package, the COVID-19 relate travel restrictions are not going to go away and have caused a massive legislative backlog. Additionally, the Congress has to organize its next regular sessions in May virtually and it may have to organize further virtual session. The business of committees has also been moved virtually. The committee are currently reviewing the budget package, some legislative backlog and reviewing rules to implement further innovations and good practices. The COVID-19 situation also requires the Congress and its committees to carry out oversight of the government's pandemic related actions.

Moreover, as FSM is prone to cyclones and other natural hazards, the preparedness for organizing virtual sessions will be a long-term investment and will help Congress to organize session during such future emergencies.

Description of inputs:

The IT equipment required for this oversight work will allow the various Committees to carry out their functions of oversight and legislation. The setup will enable the Senators to continue their work in committees and in sessions.

Web-Conference system: The web conferencing system will allow for better audio and video quality. It includes microphone system that will work with cameras for transmitting the session and will be provided to FSM Congress in Pohnpei and the delegate offices. The setup will comprise on sets of 4. Congress will also need mixer system for generating a proper audio line. It also requires 30 mics and which will be divides into 10 per satellite office along with mixer console. The Congress already has same kind of mics hardware at the central office, that's why they will choose similar brand to work properly with existing system. For the Central office though, the Congress requires a mix, which is currently not available.

Video Camera: Currently, Congress has only one camera which does not give adequate coverage for session and is inadequate in case more than one committee operate simultaneously.

Big TV Screen: As Senators will connect from different remote locations, Congress requires a TV on which they can display videos from all remotely connected Senators.

Accessories: To install the setup, the Congress will also buy different accessories, such wires and appropriate extensions, to go with the setup.
