Section 5. Terms of Reference

I. POSITION INFORMATION
Position Title	National Firm/Institute/Organization to provide 'Social and Economic Rehabilitation Support to Young People in Prisons and under Probation in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province'
Project	Youth Empowerment Programme
Engagement Modality	Professional Contract
Period of assignment/services	12 months starting from the date of signing of contract
Justification	The project needs to recruit a firm/organization/institute due to the following reasons: UNDP is promoting youth-focused development programming through its flagship Kamyab Jawan: Youth Empowerment Programme (YEP), which supports the Government of Pakistan in the implementation of the UNDP National Human Development Report 2017's recommendations as well as the national and provincial priorities related to youth empowerment and employment. YEP's three programmatic pillars comprise: 1) Promotion of civic and social engagement of youth for effective and inclusive policy-making and implementation; 2) Provision of critical life and livelihood skills to at-risk, vulnerable, marginalized and excluded youth segments – particularly young women, girls, minorities, trans-genders and especially abled youth as well as youth in prisons or under probation with law -- to help them integrate and succeed in an inclusive and progressive society; and 3) Promotion of economic empowerment of youth through employment and entrepreneurship. As a five-year national programme with a provincial and regional footprint, YEP is currently being implemented at Federal and Provincial levels (Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Balochistan and Sindh), and is an integral component of the UNDP Pakistan Country Programme Document 2018-22. YEP is particularly focusing on engaging at-risk and vulnerable youth who are short of opportunities for growth and constructive engagement. Living in a complex security and weak rule of law environment, these young people are highly vulnerable to anti-social activities that can lead them to a life of criminality and violence.

Ali Saad

According to official data (October 2017), Pakistan has a total prison population of more than 84,000, of which more than 1,300 are juvenile prisoners (under 18 years of age and comprising both males and females). Of these, roughly 90% are under-trial prisoners. The number of Pakistan's young prisoners is estimated to be much higher if the age bracket is increased to the official youth age group of 15-29 years.

In this context, a major policy challenge for the authorities is to effectively assume the task of protecting vulnerable youth, who are either at risk from or have already succumbed to negative social activities and abuses, including forced involvement in criminal activities, recruitment by criminal organizations, labor and sexual exploitation, or violence. The authorities are struggling to provide indispensable assistance to prevent juvenile delinquency and recidivism. A number of constraints in Pakistan's criminal justice system impede proper handling of youth in prisons or under probation. The police lack proper knowledge of children and young people's rights and protocols for handling cases in line with international standards. The judicial system in place remains weak and lacks resources and technical capacities. The prison system also suffers from limited resources, poor infrastructure, lack of specialized personnel, and over-crowding of jails. Management and administration capacity is limited and the overall environment is not conducive to the rehabilitation of the young prisoners. Rehabilitation programmes and vocational training do exist but the offer needs to be enhanced. Furthermore, probation departments are understaffed, underequipped, and lack the basic capacities to undertake basic rehabilitative work. The result is an overall decline in the number of parolees in Pakistan as the staff lacks the resources and capacity to perform their duties effectively.

Female prisoners are particularly vulnerable whereby their societal marginalization as women is magnified in prisons and probation systems. Apart from the poor living conditions, there is a total absence of structured and institutionalized educational, skills development, psychological counselling/critical skills trainings, and social rehabilitation & reintegration programmes for female prisoners which undermines their potential for personal growth and social and economic empowerment after release from prisons. In this regard, provision of livelihood skills and educational/psychological counselling must be supplemented with job placements and family/community led social reintegration to facilitate their holistic rehabilitation as productive and peaceful members of society.

Ali Saeed

Under its programmatic Pillar 2 (Provision of critical life and livelihood skills to at-risk, vulnerable, marginalized and excluded youth segments) to help them integrate and succeed in an inclusive and progressive society, UNDP is expanding its support to marginalized groups of young people in the country who are rarely engaged in development interventions, including thousands of young prisoners and probationers across Pakistan. These young people are deprived of opportunities for personal growth and skills development, which can be instrumental in helping them to rehabilitate and reintegrate in society after the end of their prison term.

II. RESPONSIBILITIES

Scope of Work

UNDP is engaging a national firm/organization to undertake the following activities to provide 'Social and Economic Rehabilitation and Reintegration Support to Young People in Prisons and under Probation in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Province'.

- Provide market informed livelihood skills trainings, psychological counselling, and structured family and community reintegration support to 100 young (15-29 years) prisoners (in two prisons) and 100 young probationers in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa.
- Capacitate at least 50 prisons and probation department staff (25 from each department) to institutionalize rehabilitative and youth sensitive prisons and probation systems in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa.
- Undertake high level advocacy with business owners and representatives of welfare organizations in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa to map challenges and identify employment opportunities for young prisoners and probationers in the province.
- Undertake concerted provincial level advocacy to institutionalize youth sensitive and rehabilitative prisons and probation systems in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and identify opportunities to scale up UNDP's support for the rehabilitation of prisoners and probationers in the province.
- Develop an informed and human rights centric narrative on mainstream media on the plight of young people in prisons in Pakistan in general and Khyber Pakhtunkhwa in particular.
