Duty Station:	Home Based
Languages Required:	English & Vietnamese
Starting Date:	1 August, 2020
Duration of Contract:	1 August-31 August 2020

1. BACKGROUND/CONTEXT

Viet Nam's development story during the last 30+ years since it launched the free-market economic reform "Đổi mới" in 1986 has been remarkable. Similar to other developing countries, the rapid economic development in Vietnam has taken a toll on a wide range of social issues, including environmental degradation and corporate abuses of human rights.

In 2020, Viet Nam ranked 141 out of 180 countries under the Environmental Performance Index, in which ecosystem services, climate change, pollution emission, and air quality subindices score the lowest (ranked 166, 155, 121, 115 out of 180 countries respectively). According to a report on Viet Nam's State of Environment for the period from 2011 to 2015 issued by the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment, industry production in Viet Nam is the main cause of environmental pollution that harms citizen health and livelihood.<sup>2</sup> Ensuring corporate respect for environmental law and policy, and enforcing penalties against irresponsible businesses, remains a challenge for the relevant authorities in Viet Nam. In 2016, the environmental marine life disaster, a severe water crisis that severely damaged marine life and ecosystems, local livelihoods and the health of fishermen and their families in four coastal provinces, was caused by polluting of local water sources by Formosa, a Taiwanese steel processing firm. The disaster helped bring much needed attention to the need to promote greater responsible business practice in Viet Nam, and the real impact of such irresponsible business behavior on individuals and communities. In the same year as the Formosa incident, the Ministry of Public Security reportedly handled 17,000 business cases violating environment regulations.<sup>3</sup>

With increased industrialization, in particular in the garment industry, labor and worker's rights have been highlighted as areas of concern. A survey conducted by the Centre for Consultancy and Transfer of Occupational Safety Health and Environmental Protection Technology in the South of Vietnam from 2000-2012, of the 237 surveyed facilities, 81 per cent had no labor-protection plan and nearly 61 per cent had not signed a contract with healthcare facilities for periodic health examinations for their employees. Another concern is decent living standards for workers in Viet Nam as the average wage in Vietnam is only one-seventh that of Asia Pacific.<sup>5</sup> This is partly due to the fact that most Vietnamese manufacturing companies participate in the lowest value-added part of the international production chain, hence, competition in this part of the production chain is based primarily on production costs, especially low wages.<sup>6</sup>

Lack of awareness among the private sector on the importance of responsible business practice in Viet Nam is one of the main causes of negative environmental and social impacts by businesses on local communities. Raising awareness and fostering growth of responsible business practice is therefore imperative to ensuring the sustainability of Viet Nam's development in moving to the next development phase. This is particularly timely now as the COVID-19 pandemic threatens the survival of a significant proportion of businesses<sup>7</sup> but also offers a valuable opportunity to rethink business responsibility for the society and the environment.

UNDP Viet Nam began driving forward responsible business practice in 2019 as part of a regional initiative on Business and Human Rights. The overall objective of the project is to strengthen responsible business practice and ensure respect for human rights in the context of business activity. A communications campaign to promote responsible business practice among businesses and policymakers is needed to support national and regional momentum in upholding responsible business practice. To implement the campaign, we are looking for a Viet Nam-based contractor to film footages of relevant scenes, which will be used to produce promotional materials for the campaign.

2. OBJECTIVES:

The footage filmed will be used to:

- Increase awareness among relevant stakeholders, especially policymakers and businesses, on the importance of promoting responsible business practice for economic growth and corporate sustainability, including how such practice impacts on business performance, people and the planet.
- Provide communications assets to create interactive and innovative video clips for UNDP to use as part of the responsible business campaign and future events on responsible business.

3. SCOPE OF WORK AND EXPECTED OUTPUTS

Deliver at least 20 footages in full HD quality, each between 10-30 seconds illustrating the three biggest themes of Environment, Labor, and Corporate Governance (interviews might be included).

4. TIMING, DURATION AND LOCATION

- The contractor is expected to perform this task from 1 August to 31 August 2020.
- The contractor shall work independently on this assignment and deliver final outputs as described in Section 3 above.
