1. Background

The Ministry of Justice has been assigned to produce a policy proposal to draft the Law on Mutual Legal Assistance on Civil Matters (hereafter referred to as “the Law”). In April 2020, the proposal has been approved by the Government of Viet Nam. Subsequently, the proposal was submitted to the Standing Committee of the National Assembly for consideration to include it in the 2021 National Law and Ordinance Making Program. The major orientations of this proposal are:

Firstly, the Law should institutionalize the Party’s orientation and State's policies on international integration, legal and judicial reform, building a rule-of-law state, and ensuring human rights. The political orientation stresses that legal drafting process should comply with the international law and help reform the state apparatus, as well as promote judicial cooperation.

Secondly, the Law will be built on the basis of selectively inheriting the advantages of the current law (in civil matters) and its guiding documents. Besides, the Law will add new contents in accordance with the international standards, which meet the requirements of development and international integration in civil matters.

Thirdly, the Law should overcome the current shortcomings that stem from legal regulations and the practices of implementing the regulations. One of the solutions is to simplify the process of handling the incoming and outgoing requests to meet the requirement of streamlining the state apparatus in accordance with the Party's orientation in Resolution No. 18/NQ-TW dated 25/10/2007 of the Vietnam Central Committee. In addition, the Law should enable modern procedures on handling of requests towards the more effective application of information technology in building the e-government in Resolution No. 36a/NQ-CP dated 14 October 2015.

Lastly, there is a need for consultation with a diverse pool of experts in the process of drafting the Law to ensure its quality and feasibility.

In 2019, the EU Justice and Legal Empowerment Program (EU JULE) supported the Department of International Law - Ministry of Justice (MOJ.DIL) to conduct a report on practical implementation of the current Law on Mutual Legal Assistance (MLA) in the civil matters in ensuring the rights women and children (the 2019 Report). The 2019 Report provides an assessment on the current legal framework as well as a number of recommendations for the new Law. Since the Law on MLA is of cross-border and international sphere, there is a need to scrutinize the domestic MLA practices from the comparative perspectives and through the lens of international standards. Under the framework of EU JULE Program in 2020, UNDP continues to support MOJ.DIL to conduct a research on international experience in mutual legal assistance in civil matters. This research report, together with the 2019 Report will support MOJ in drafting a modern and feasible LMLA in civil matters, which will better protect the rights of parties in civil, family and marriage cases involving foreign elements.

In this context, UNDP seeks one national consultant and one international consultant to deliver the research report. This document set out specific terms of reference for the international consultant.
