1. BACKGROUND

Myanmar is the world's second largest producer of opium poppy, with an estimated 37,300 hectares under cultivation in 2018, representing almost double the cultivation from the 2006 level of 21,600 hectares. UNODC estimates that over 335,000 households are dependent on opium poppy cultivation in Myanmar. Two-thirds of these households are dependent on opium poppy cultivation (OPC) for their food security. In southern Shan State's ceasefire areas this proportion is greater, and the food shortages are estimated to affect over 75% of the opium poppy growing population.

UNODC addresses these issues through its alternative development programme currently implemented in 55 villages in Hopong and Loilen townships of southern Shan State. The programme objective is to develop sustainable livelihood alternatives for opium growing communities in South Shan by addressing the economic root causes of poppy cultivation and related environmental degradation. Thus, the programme intervenes in the opium poppy economy by introducing alternative permanent crops and establishing a farmers' cooperative to enable participating farmers to independently cultivate, refine and commercialize high quality products that can be sold both on the national and international markets. At the same time, the programme addresses problems of deforestation related to opium poppy cultivation through the implementation of enrichment and reforestation activities which also have positive spillover effects on livelihoods by protecting water sources and reducing erosion and soil degradation. In addition to its focus on livelihoods and forest, the programme has an explicit and crosscutting focus on capacity development to increase national capacities and ensure that the benefits reached are sustainable and can be replicated elsewhere.

In 2015 the beneficiaries of the program decided to create Green Gold Cooperative. In the search of potential markets, the Cooperative signed a 5-years partnership agreement with a private french roasting company (Malongo) with the compromise of obtaining the Fair-trade certification. The Cooperative was used as a base for the commercialization of the 2017-2018 harvest and successfully sent the first container to France in October 2018 and during 2018-2019 harvest season, the cooperative signed contracts for export to Europe, three additional containers. In 2020 it is expected to export five containers.
