Context of the Requirement	Government of Nepal has made strong commitments to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by 2030. For this, it has taken various initiatives in devising appropriate policies, programs, institutional and financial arrangements to accelerate implementation of SDGs. Following the promulgation of a new constitution in 2015, Nepal has moved from a unitary to a federal, democratic and republic system of governance. The various powers and authorities related to development and service delivery with financial resources are devolved to the provincial and local governments which are directly related to almost all the SDGs. Therefore, it is crucial for provincial and local governments to incorporate the SDGs in their development plans, policies and programs and also in their medium-term expenditure framework and annual programs to achieve the SDGs by 2030. 1. BACKGROUND

Government of Nepal has made strong commitments to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by 2030. To this end, it has taken various initiatives in devising appropriate policies, programs, institutional and financial arrangements to accelerate implementation of SDGs in Nepal. In Sustainable Development Goals Status and Roadmap: 2016-2030 document, GoN has outlined the national priorities for Nepal's SDG implementation. A resource-strapped country like Nepal needs to prioritize, localize and motivate a bottom-up path towards greater progress for sustainable development. Thus, the Nepal SDGs Roadmap document identifies key priority areas, both in the short- and long-term, and nationally relevant targets and indicators for Nepal's SDG implementation. In the course of localizing the SDGs, Nepal has identified total 479 indicators which is addition of 247 indicators with that of 232 global number of indicators.

The national priorities are further elaborated in the GoN's 15th Plan (2076/77 – 2080/81), the framework document for Nepal's development efforts for the coming five years, which has given key priority to SDGs localization at the sub-national government level among others. Similarly, the Needs Assessment, Costing and Financing Strategy provides SDG implementation strategy based on a need assessment, maps out the financial resources available and financial gaps and draws up a mechanism for SDG implementation. The National Planning Commission (NPC) is the lead agency of the GoN for planning, facilitating and monitoring of the SDGs at the national level while Provincial Policy and Planning Commissions are responsible for discharging the same roles in the respective provinces.

Following the promulgation of a new constitution in 2015, Nepal has moved from a unitary to a federal, democratic and republic system of governance. The country has now seven provincial and 753 local governments at the sub-national level. They have been given more authorities and responsibilities in the constitution. The various powers and authorities related to development and service delivery with financial resources are devolved to the provincial and local governments which are directly related to almost all the SDGs. Therefore, the Roadmap document acknowledges that much of the burden of SDG implementation will shift towards provincial and local governments for five reasons: i. vital public services, which form a social core of the SDGs, are now the responsibility of the province and local levels, ii. mandated transfer of financial and other resource to the provincial and local governments means that they will have increased resources to fund SDGs, iii. given the uneven development achievements, prioritization and sequencing of SDGs can now be better tailored to local contexts, iv. local people's participation and effective service delivery can be best assured when the SDGs are implemented at sub national levels and v. "leaving no one behind" and ensuring equity in development outcomes require targeted interventions at pockets of poverty and deprivation; this is a task best handled when information and peer-monitoring is leveraged locally.

Therefore, it is crucial for provincial and local governments to incorporate the SDGs in their development plans, policies and programs and also in their MTEF and annual programs to achieve the SDGs by 2030. The Government of Nepal's 15th plan is in implementation of the second year which has incorporated all the SDGs. The provincial and local governments have also completed half of their five-year tenure. Therefore, it is urgent need to harmonize the federal, provincial and local governments' plans, policies and programs to achieve the common goals. The commitment of GoN to achieve the SDGs by 2030 has increased the responsibilities of the sub-national governments as well to support the federal government endeavors and to harmonize the federal, provincial and local governments' plans, policies and programs for the common goal. To facilitate the sub national governments, NPC has already drafted the SDGs localization ToT manual/resource book for the provincial and local government to mainstream the indicators and targets articulated in the SDGs status and roadmap.

In this background, the NPC/UNDP led Accelerating Implementation of Sustainable Development Goals in Nepal (AISN)⁵ project is procuring consulting firm to select local governments (LGs) for piloting the SDGs localization and understand the readiness in the provinces and selected LGs.

2. OBJECTIVES OF THE ASSIGNMENT
