SECTION 5. TERMS OF REFERENCE

A. Project Title: Interoperable Domestic Remittances System for Merchants, Women and Youth

B. Project Description

UN Capital Development Fund (UNCDF) and Inclusive Digital Economies: UNCDF provides investment capital and technical support to both the public and the private sector. It provides capital financing -- in the forms of grants, soft loans and credit enhancement – and the technical expertise to unleash sustainable financing at the local level. UNCDF's seeks to develop inclusive digital economies in Bangladesh and to achieve this goal it is imperative to make sure financial services providers (FSPs) such as network operators, banks, Microfinance Institutions etc are connected with each other, so that customers, can transact more easily across different providers. In Bangladesh, for example, due to the lack of a truth interoperable system, the poor have to pay quite high fees to convert digital money to cash and vice versa.

There are a number of disjointed interoperable system development processes within Bangladesh at the moment. Policy makers and FSPs are proactively seeking and initiating efforts for having an interoperable platform in the country. The requirement is to support such efforts by having more of use cases that most clearly serve the poor and the low income first, in particular the most marginalized such as micro-merchants, women and youth. UNCDF study under its EU supported MDDRM project showed that lack of interoperability is constraining micro-merchants and its customers in both rural and urban areas to digitalise and fully leverage the existing digital economy ecosystem. Agent banking channels are growing but no banks have the resources to develop the “network effect” to ensure presence in every corner of the country. An interoperable platform which facilitates cash withdrawal from any bank's agent banking outlet will develop that network effect. In addition, the market, including regulators and financial institutions, need practical experience in interoperability to be active leaders and participants in interoperability schemes. Both regulators and digital financial services providers (DFSPs) are looking beyond learnings from workshops and PowerPoint presentations, towards having practical use cases. They need to make decisions that will affect their businesses, and they can only make these decisions when the product is tangible and real.

Practical learning on a use case that serves the most vulnerable in the country is an ideal starting point. UNCDF is therefore looking for a firm that can develop an interoperable fund transfer platform between banks where a banked customer can remit funds to an unbanked or other bank's customer. The sender shares a cash out code with the receiver, who can use the code to withdraw cash from any bank's touchpoint.

The selected firm should use Mojaloop, an Open Source real time payment framework and platform. Mojaloop was selected most importantly as it is open source, so that any technology development and learnings can be passed to Bangladesh Bank or another national scheme operator in the future. Mojaloop is also well suited as it was designed specifically for last mile payments across several classes of FSPs (Banks, MFIs, Mobile money operators etc).

C. Scope of Services, Expected Outputs and Target Completion

UNCDF would like to use a phased approach to the development of this interoperable transfer platform. First phase relates to the proof of concept; the second phase to a commercial pilot and the third phase to a commercial expansion. This will allow for the market to demonstrate the value and enable learnings among participants, as well as share those learnings with the wider market, while still making tangible forward progress towards delivery of the product to end clients. The Scope of Work of this RFP relates only to the first phase of the project, as each phase is conditional on validation of hypotheses and reassessment of national payment system progress at the end of each phase.

The firm will be therefore expected to produce a “fake money/fake rails” solution that allows participants DFSPs to understand the value proposition of an interoperable transfer platform and its impact on their business operations. There are 3 major outputs expected to be undertaken by the firm:

Product development to be completed by May 2021 (tentative)

1. Develop v 1.0 cash out of product
- 2.2 Workshops on the v1.0 cash out product for DFSP alignment
- 3.1 training for 5 DFSPs on Real Time Payments
4. In consultation and coordination with UNCDF sharing concept with key government partners

Technology deployment to be completed by August 2021 (tentative)

1. Deploy a Mojaloop Lab environment in AWS configured to the use case decided.
2. Integrate an SMS provider to the Mojaloop Lab environment for delivery of codes
3. Onboard 5 DFSPs to the lab environment
4. Live demonstration of the product using different sending and receiving institutions.

Scheme development to be completed by November 2021 (tentative)

- 1.1 Training on governance, rules and operations of real time payments
- 2.2 Workshops to introduce the scheme concept to participant DFSPs
3. Initial participant input into business rules to gain trust.
4. Develop initial reporting requirements from DFSPs and regulators for fraud and reconciliation.

Evaluation of the proof of concept phase by December 2021 (tentative)

1. Project closure validation/monitoring reports
2. Report highlighting lessons learned and recommendations for phase 2
3. Any other proof/ evidence required by UNCDF and external evaluator

Once the proof of concept is developed, UNCDF will invite participants to participate in a commercial pilot and subsequently, a commercial expansion. Four of the FSPs participants in the proof of concept will be selected for integration focus for the Proof of Concept lab environment based on their demonstrated willingness to contribute. Other Initial Participants will be allowed to connect but only if resources are available or at their own expense.

E. Institutional Arrangement

The contracted firm will report to the UNCDF Digital Regional Manager based in Bangkok. UNCDF will carry out a performance evaluation at the end of the assignment and will require monthly calls and monthly progress reports.

F. Duration of the Work

The duration of the assignment will be maximum 9 months.

G. Location of Work

The work should be conducted in Dhaka

H. Qualifications of the Successful Service Provider at Various Levels
