Annex 1Description of Requirements

Context of the Requirement	UNDP has supported the Albanian Government to improve the coverage and management effectiveness of Albania's network of marine and coastal protected areas (MCPAs) as an essential complement to its network of terrestrial protected areas and contribute to Albania's obligations under different UN Conventions and the EU accession process. Significant achievements were made in the Vlora region by catalyzing the involvement of stakeholders and by supporting the establishment of a clear institutional and legal framework for MCPA designation and management. However, multiple stages of development are needed before an Albanian ecologically representative MCPA network is fully realized and can provide coastal communities with sustained benefits from the marine and coastal environment. UNDP, jointly with the Ministry of Tourism and Environment, has experienced successful efforts in performing Marine Protected Areas gap analysis, which followed with the establishment of the first National Marine Park of Sazan-Karaburun (April 2010). The project is providing support to the National Agency of Protected Areas to create a model of management for the Karaburun-Sazan MPA to be replicated in country level. Pesca-tourism is a relatively new development in sustainable tourism. It consists of a day trip on a fishing boat with local fishermen who take tourists on board. Tourists take part in fishing operations by casting and pulling in the nets and performing other tasks, such as eating freshly caught fish cooked on board and visiting fishing villages, In the last two decades, pescatourism has involved an increasing numbers of tourists, attracting the attention of other European countries, and succeeded in creating potential from coastal areas, embracing the fishing industry in the strict sense, and more generally the landscape, culture and local economic activities. Such potential is able to attract tourists and generate income through a process of more sustainable exploitation of local resources.
Implementing Partner of UNDP	Government of Albania
Brief Description of the Required Services ¹	Demonstrate to Vlora Bay fishermen groups the value of taking part in pesca-tourism activities whereas to policymakers and tourism and environment authorities the importance of facilitating pesca-tourism. Challenges ahead There is no legal framework dealing with pesca-tourism therefore it is necessary to anchor the efforts into a local entity that would be willing to take a risk while arguing for the interest of pesca-tourism activities. Build on activities that extend pesca-tourism to other, complementary activities such as tasting sessions, accommodation, linking in with agricultural tourism and developing methods to add value to under-exploited species.

Annex 4

TERMS OF REFERENCE PESCA-TOURISM PROMOTION

1. Project Background

UNDP has supported the Albanian Government to improve the coverage and management effectiveness of Albania's network of marine and coastal protected areas (MCPAs) as an essential complement to its network of terrestrial protected areas and contribute to Albania's obligations under different UN Conventions and the EU accession process. Significant achievements were made in the Vlora region by catalyzing the involvement of stakeholders and by supporting the establishment of a clear institutional and legal framework for MCPA designation and management. However, multiple stages of development are needed before an Albanian ecologically representative MCPA network is fully realized and can provide coastal communities with sustained benefits from the marine and coastal environment.

UNDP, jointly with the Ministry of Tourism and Environment, has experienced successful efforts in performing Marine Protected Areas gap analysis, which followed with the establishment of the first National Marine Park of Sazan-Karaburun (April 2010).

The project is providing support to the National Agency of Protected Areas to create a model of management for the Karaburun-Sazan MPA to be replicated in country level.

Pesca-tourism is a relatively new development in sustainable tourism. It consists of a day trip on a fishing boat with local fishermen who take tourists on board. Tourists take part in fishing operations by casting and pulling in the nets and performing other tasks, such as eating freshly caught fish cooked on board and visiting fishing villages,

In the last two decades, pescatourism has involved an increasing numbers of tourists, attracting the attention of other European countries, and succeeded in creating potential from coastal areas, embracing the fishing industry in the strict sense, and more generally the landscape, culture and local economic activities. Such potential is able to attract tourists and generate income through a process of more sustainable exploitation of local resources.

2. Scope of the work, responsibilities and duties

Demonstrate to Vlora Bay fishermen groups the value of taking part in pesca-tourism activities whereas to policymakers and tourism and environment authorities the importance of facilitating pesca-tourism.

Challenges ahead

There is no legal framework dealing with pesca-tourism therefore it is necessary to anchor the efforts into a local entity that would be willing to take a risk while arguing for the interest of pesca-tourism activities. Build on activities that extend pesca-tourism to other, complementary activities such as tasting sessions, accommodation, linking in with agricultural tourism and developing methods to add value to under-exploited species.

Specific duties include:

- Develop a pesca-tourism offer that would be compatible with the type of fishing in the area and guarantee respect for the marine environment.
- Establishing all requirements for putting pesca-tourism into practice (safety rules, features of boats, training for fishermen) and carry out adaptations necessary on participating boat(s)
- Definition of the sort of pesca-tourism to be carried out by the fishermen, based on the types of boats and fishing in the area
