BACKGROUND

In 2019, UNDP Myanmar commenced a programme of activity under the global ‘Parliaments as Partners supporting the Women, Peace and Security (WPS) Agenda’ project. The programme was designed to be delivered through UNDP’s long-term parliamentary strengthening programme. The primary aim of the work was to strengthen the role of MPs in engaging the public to provide input into the national priorities of the Myanmar Sustainable Development Plan (MSDP) that address WPS. The project expected to improve MPs’ capacity to oversee the implementation of WPS-related actions in the MSDP, using the National Indicator Framework (NIF) as a frame for oversight. It was designed to enable an ongoing and constructive dialogue around WPS with stakeholders including government, INGO/Development Partner and civil society representatives. Given challenges to implementation – including the Covid-19 pandemic and political instability– the project work has been modified.

In this context, UNDP Myanmar is seeking an experienced international researcher in the field of gender and public leadership, to lead a research study relating to the WPS agenda.
