I. BACKGROUND & PROJECT DESCRIPTION

In Viet Nam, judges are appointed by the State President to exercise judicial power on behalf of the State. A judge's position is of great responsibility and noble honour. In the process of building the socialist rule-of-law State, the Party, State and People request judges to perform their duties on an impartial, objective and law-biding basis. Judges are expected to become the symbol of moral integrity and adhere to the core principles of the constitution and in line with the teaching of President Ho Chi Minh, according to which, judges must "serve the public, observe the law, be fair and impartial" and "be close to the people, understand the people, help the people, learn from the people".

Viet Nam promulgated the Civil Code, and the Civil Procedure Code in 2015 (the Codes) in light of the 2013 Constitution of Viet Nam. The 2015 Civil Code has advanced the protection and respect of civil rights with, inter alia, the stipulation of transgender rights and the concretization on the rights related to assets. Both Codes require the court to conduct hearings in civil cases, even if where there is no legal basis to apply. One of the prominent changes, regarding civil procedure, is that the 2015 Civil Procedure Code has upgraded the principle of "public trials" in the 2004 Civil Procedure Code to "prompt, equal and public trials". The new changes in the 2015 Civil Code and Civil Procedure Code create a significant impact on civil relations as well as civil dispute settlement in Viet Nam.

To ensure the compliance of judges with laws and guide judges on how to handle ethical dilemmas, in 2018, the Supreme People's Court (SPC) promulgated the Code of Ethics and Conducts for Judges (CoC). As civil cases occupy a noteworthy portion in courts' adjudication, training judges on the implementation of Civil Code, Civil Procedure Code as well as CoC is essential to ensure the laws and regulations are properly applied.

With that vision, in 2020, UNDP supported SPC to produce a set of training materials on the Application of the Code of Ethics and Conduct for Judges in Implementing 2015 Civil Procedure Code and Civil Code and conduct 2 training workshop for nearly 120 judges and court officials of the High Courts, provincial Courts and others, under the “Justice and legal Empowerment Programme in Vietnam” funded by the EU (EU JULE). Although the workshops were successful with high turnout of participants, they were still largely delivered in the top-down traditional way where interaction between trainers and participants was minimal.

Within the framework of EU JULE programme for 2021, UNDP continues supporting SPC to revise and improve the existing set of materials, with the orientation to adopt interactive and learners-centred methodologies in order to enhance its impacts. Subsequently, two two-day training workshops will be organized, tentatively in Q1/2022 with the participation of judges and court officers of the High Courts and Provincial Courts, who did not participate in the previous trainings in 2019 and 2020.

UNDP is hiring two national consultants (NC) to carry out two key tasks: 1) revise and improve the existing set of materials; and 2) conduct two two-day training workshops. One NC takes primary responsibility in revising the content of the training materials and conduct the training workshops as key trainer (NC1). The other NC is in charge of designing activities to deliver the training content and conducting the training workshop as facilitator (NC2).

This TOR is for NC1 – Civil law expert & key trainer

II. OBJECTIVES

- (1) To revise the existing training materials on the Application of Code of Ethics and Conduct for Judges in Implementing 2015 Civil Procedure Code and Civil Code to adopt interactive and learners-centred methodologies (with instructions on how to adapt for online format training). In particular:
  - (i) Identify and address gaps, omissions and outdated contents, with the focus on legal provisions and international norms, in the existing set of training materials;
  - (ii) Proof-read the documents and identify vague or ambiguous expressions to rephrase and clarify;
  - (iii) Finalise a complete set of training materials based on the above-mentioned identifications, which satisfies the criteria as set out in III – Scope of work, section 2.
  - (iv) Collaborate with NC2 to adopt interactive and learners-centred methodologies.
- (2) Conduct two two-day training workshops for judges and court officials: Using the revised materials (as set out under (1)), the training workshops aim at raising awareness of judges, who did not participate in previous workshops in 2019 and 2020, on the relationship between provisions of the Codes and the CoC. Accordingly, the training courses concentrate on:
  - (i) Knowledge:
    - Awareness on codes of conducts in other countries and international standards (Bangalore Principles);
    - Understand the provisions of the CoC and identifying areas where judges must pay close attention in complying in carrying out their function as a judge in a civil case;

- Understand other provisions of the Codes and other laws and regulations governing the conduct of judges.
- (ii) Skills:
  - Be able to clarify the application of the CoC and the Codes in the adjudication of civil cases;
  - Civil judgement writing skills
- (iii) Value:
  - Appreciate the links between the CoC and the Codes in their practice as judges of civil cases;
