I. BACKGROUND & PROJECT DESCRIPTION

Some of the key threats to development in Southeast Asia stem from transnational organized crime (TOC), and these threats are becoming increasingly integrated within the region itself, as well as with neighboring and connected regions, giving it a global dimension.

TOC in the region involves numerous illicit products, flows and crime types, including trafficking in persons and smuggling of migrants, illicit drugs and weapons trade, wildlife and timber trafficking, falsification of official documents, smuggling of cigarettes and counterfeit products, kidnapping for ransom, and extortion. In 2019, UNODC published its Transnational Organized Crime Threat Assessment (TOCTA) that estimated the main illicit trafficking flows in the region at US$ 130 billion per year. This marks a 30% increase compared to the TOCTA conducted in 2013 on the same crime types.

The resulting illicit financial flows have a major impact on development and stability in the region. In this regard, one of the most-affected countries is Myanmar where UNODC identified that the proceeds from illicit trafficking impacted the peace process in the country. After March 2021 and the closing of the country to international trade, one of the few sources of cash left will be illicit trafficking, particularly drugs (methamphetamine, but possibly also opium, as farmers may have to resume production to generate an income). However, all countries in the Mekong region are strongly impacted by those illicit financial flows.

To deliver this research, UNODC would like to engage a research consultant (Illicit Financial Flows) to conduce a desk research on the illicit financial flows across Southeast Asia to identify the methodologies used to launder money / assets. The research will focus on Brunei Darussalam, Malaysia, the Philippines and Indonesia to complement the work of two international consultants (one Senior Research consultant and one Research Consultant), who are being recruited separately. The overall report will focus on Vietnam, Thailand, Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar, Malaysia, the Philippines and Indonesia.

II. Objectives
In light of the above, it becomes clear that the volume of illicit financial flows has a major impact on the economies in Southeast Asia and beyond by eroding good governance, enabling corruption, creating economic distortions, endangering lives, and destroying livelihoods. As result, the overall assignment aims to better understand how illicit financial flows in Vietnam and other ASEAN Member States (except Myanmar) are moved and laundered, and those flows connect to major financial hubs and destinations outside of this region.

III. SCOPE OF WORK

The successful consultant will be expected to be responsible for the following:

Task 1: Produce a literature review on illicit financial flows across Southeast Asia to identify the methodologies used to launder money / assets, and deliver a preliminary analysis for further research.

- Liaise with the Senior Research Consultant on the overall objectives of the overall report to understand the focus of the component assigned.
- Identify open sources and review literature on: (i) the movement and laundering techniques/mechanisms used for illicit financial flows through the misuse of AML regulated sectors and the financial sector, as well as the nexus with corruption, with particular focus on misuse of Money Service Businesses, Cash Movements, Trade Based Money Laundering, Professional Money Launderers and Crypto in the countries assigned, in collaboration with the Senior Research Consultant; and (ii) how those flows connect to major financial hubs, including Hong Kong and Singapore, and destinations outside of this region, including back to the United Kingdom.
- Identify and contact key partners in the countries (Vietnam, Brunei Darussalam, Malaysia, the Philippines and Indonesia) for online consultations, in collaboration with the Senior Research Consultant.

Task 2: Deliver a refined analysis on illicit financial flows across Southeast Asia to identify the methodologies used to launder money / assets

- Further identify and conduct online consultations with key counterparts in countries of interest, in collaboration with the Senior Research Consultant.
- Draft, in collaboration with the Senior Research Consultant, a refined analysis narrowing the scope of the research to the most promising areas/topics based on the desk research and online consultations held.

Task 3: Submission of final component on the detailed findings for each of the countries researched (Brunei Darussalam, Malaysia, the Philippines and Indonesia) as part of the overall report (Vietnam, Thailand, Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar, Malaysia, the Philippines and Indonesia) and prepare/ deliver briefing

- Based on UNODC feedback and that of the Senior Research Consultant, conduct additional desk research.
- Draft and submit a final report on the movement and laundering techniques/mechanisms used for illicit financial flows through the misuse of AML regulated sectors and the financial sector, as well as the nexus with corruption, with particular focus on misuse of Money Service Businesses, Cash Movements, Trade Based Money Laundering, Professional Money Launderers and Crypto, in collaboration with the Senior Research Consultant. The report will include connections to major financial hubs, including Hong Kong and Singapore, and to destinations outside of this region, including back to the United Kingdom.
- Prepare and upon request, deliver a briefing to present the results of the final report and answer any questions.
