| End date: 31st March 2022 |

B. DESCRIPTION OR BACKGROUND

The United Nations (UN), along with Non-Governmental Organization (NGO) alliances and other international organizations, have issued directives from the highest levels endorsing standards of Zero Tolerance for SEA (particularly the United Nations Secretary-General’s Bulletin on Special Measures for the Protection from Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse 2003/13). All humanitarian and development agencies should have in place policies and systems on prevention of and response to SEA, not only because it is the right thing to do but also because it is a requirement for anyone who is an implementing partner of the United Nations.

As the Secretary-General has made clear, sexual exploitation and abuse is not confined to peacekeeping or humanitarian settings alone, it also occurs in development settings.

As part of the UN’s new strategy to combat sexual exploitation and abuse, Protection from Sexual Exploitation and Abuse is for the first time being acknowledged as a system-wide issue, which requires a common approach and a system wide response regardless of the country context or UN setting. Therefore, as part of his strategy, the Secretary-General of the United Nations has asked Agencies, Funds and Programs to adopt new measures and strengthen existing ones to better prevent, detect, report and take action against personnel who commit these abuses.

All UN agencies, funds and programs have dedicated strategies and protocols for SEA and are very serious as to their enforcement. The United Nations Secretary-General’s report on Special measures for protection from sexual exploitation and abuse: A new approach from Feb 2017 calls for new efforts to end abuses committed by those serving under the United Nations flag in any capacity and “bring this scourge to heel”. The strategy emphasizes a system-wide approach, focusing on: putting victims first, ending impunity, engaging civil society and other external partners, and raising awareness on the issue.

To ensure the UNCT as a whole is advancing its efforts to prevent sexual exploitation and abuse and is prepared to respond to cases, including to provide assistance to victims, when cases do occur, in an effective and coordinated manner, the UN RC has led the UNCT in Botswana in establishing an Inter-Agency Team (IAT-PSEA) on PSEA early in 2021. The Group is technically led by the Gender Adviser in the RCO as the PSEA Coordinator in support of the Resident Coordinator, ultimately accountable to report to the Secretary General on the UN PSEA actions in Botswana.

The IAT-PSEA is composed by PSEA focal points of different agencies and serves as the primary body for coordination and oversight on protection from sexual exploitation and abuse by international and national personnel of the UN, NGOs and IGOs. The team has developed a 2021 Work Plan which was approved by the UNCT in July 2021, representing the UN’s collective commitment to prevent and respond to SEA. The Work Plan follows the Country level checklist on the minimum actions required on the protection from sexual exploitation and abuse and encompasses activities around 4 strategic areas: (i) COVID-19 response; (ii) Preventive Action; (iii) Risk Mitigation and Response Measures and (iv) Governance of the IAT- PSEA.

Under the Prevention area, one of the key activities prioritized for 2021 is the development and follow up of a country Risk Assessment on SEA as part of the UN system wide responsibility. A risk assessment provides a concrete way to hold leaders, managers and commanders to account, by clearly identifying who is responsible for addressing specific risks, what actions they must take and by when.

According to the UN Misconduct Risk Management Tools (2019), the Risk management helps UNCT to address SEA more effectively in three keyways:

- Risk management enables UNCT to be proactive in addressing SEA. By anticipating future threats, the UN agencies are better off to take action now and reduce those threats and even avoid them altogether.
- Risk management supports better decision-making on SEA. For instance, by providing a good understanding of risks and why they happen, UNCT leadership is better able to decide how to prevent SEA. Similarly, by identifying which risks are a priority, UNCT leadership can make more informed decisions about where to focus its attention and the agencies’ resources;
- Risk management provides a concrete way to hold UNCT leadership, managers and commanders accountable on SEA by clearly identifying who is responsible for addressing specific risks and what actions they must take.

Planning and risk management are core management functions. It is instrumental to align the understanding of objectives and related risks at different levels in the Organization, provide management with the necessary tools to identify the risks that may affect the functioning of their operations, understand the root causes of risk and design adequate response strategies to prevent and mitigate them.

Risk management supports better decision-making on conduct and discipline issues. By understanding which forms of misconduct their personnel are most likely to engage in and why, the UNCT can take more informed decisions about how to prevent misconduct and the capacity building initiatives needed to tackle potential existing gaps. Once the risks of misconduct in the organization are identified and recorded in the risk registry, they will contribute to the development of a work plan, describing how the organization will prevent and mitigate the risks of misconduct by its personnel, reinforce internal control systems where needed, to prevent and mitigate these risks, implement a continual improvement cycle that will be informed by the risk register, provide information to update the register itself and enforce UN standards of conduct when misconduct occurs.

The risk register describes the main risks to the successful achievement of the UNCT’s annual workplan and how these risks will be mitigated and managed. Information from the existing PSEA Work Plan can be lifted and included into a broader workplan for the 2022-2026 period, covering all forms of misconduct.

The risk assessment should capture key elements from most relevant UN Risk Assessment Tools and be adapted to the specific country context of Botswana. It is required to have the necessary alignment with the UN CCA developed in the context of the preparation of the new UNSDCF and that the risk management plan is aligned with opportunities identified by the CF’s results framework and the Business Operation Strategy for the next 5-years.

The UNCT in Botswana includes 22 UN Entities, both resident and nonresident. Most of the UN agencies with physical presence in Botswana are hosted at the UN House, while the others - WHO, FAO, IOM, UNICEF and UNESCO, occupy different offices in the city of Gaborone. UNHCR is the only one with an office outside Gaborone, in the refugee camp. According to available information, the UN in Botswana counts on 167 staff. Of the total 167, 121 are national (66 female and 55 male) and 46 are international (23 female and 23 male).

C. PURPOSE

The UN is recruiting an international consultant to conduct a risk assessment in respect of sexual exploitation and abuse, making full use of existing risk management tools of the UN, duly adapted to the country context. The assignment should include a full risk assessment matrix including its scope, context, criteria for risk assessment, as well as a management plan for the next 5-years (2021-2026) for treatment and monitoring of SEA, based on identified potential risks. Furthermore, the process of undertaking the assessment should be duly participatory and an opportunity for internal capacity building of different UN inter-agency groups, in particular of the IAT-PSEA and of the Gender and Human Rights Thematic Group.

D. SCOPE OF WORK

Under the guidance of the Botswana Inter-Agency Team on PSEA and in line with the most relevant PSEA training and capacity assessment tools and guidelines, and with the Risk Management Toolkits created to follow up on the implementation of the UN Sexual Exploitation and Abuse Action Plan, the consultant will deliver a Risk Assessment and an integrated 5-years plan, including the following task and sections:

1. Develop the Situation analysis and identify SEA-related risks and causes
2. Create the Risk Profile in Botswana, which describes all the forms of potential misconduct of UN personnel in the country, the underlying risk factors, and an assessment of which risks and causes are most severe. This can be used as a visual dashboard – a Risk Register - to explain which risks are most severe and should be the focus of the UN attention in Botswana;
3. Create the SEA risk Treatment Logframe through which, for each risk, mitigation treatment options are recommend, a timeline for treatment, the expected effect from the treatment, who is responsible for the treatment and the status, within the UNCT. This document/section serves as a useful management tool to discuss progress in implementing the risk assessment management plan;
4. Based on the result of the RA develop a UNCT PSEA strategy for the next 5-years, including proposal of procedures of internal complaint and victim assistance mechanism;
5. As part of the process, conduct a 2-days inter-agency training on Protection from Sexual Exploitation and Abuse by UN, NGO and IGO personnel, in line with the existing training package developed by ECHA/ECPS UN and NGO Task Force on Protection from Sexual Exploitation and Abuse.
