Context of the Requirement	Africa borderlands are notable for enormous innovation and creativity, and they contain human and natural resources to support inclusive socio-economic growth. These potentials are often disguised by stories of crises, insecurity and poverty. These stories amplify and spotlight the vulnerabilities rather than the resilience of the borderlands. The Africa Borderlands Centre (ABC) was established to influence a new pathway to implement development assistance in the borderlands, based on the unique experiences, strengths and bottom-up approaches that work for these marginal spaces. The social innovation ideas are focused on digitization of funding and logistics chain; upscaling e-payment capabilities of all thrift and credit societies; and improving products value chain through digitization. III. Background Information

Africa borderlands are notable for enormous innovation and creativity, and they contain human and natural resources to support inclusive socio-economic growth. These potentials are often disguised by stories of crises, insecurity and poverty. These stories amplify and spotlight the vulnerabilities rather than the resilience of the borderlands. The Africa Borderlands Centre (ABC) was established to influence a new pathway to implement development assistance in the borderlands, based on the unique experiences, strengths and bottom-up approaches that work for these marginal spaces. The ABC will articulate a mix of traditional/ local knowledge, social resilience building mechanisms which provides solutions to a wide array of challenges, and time-tested traditions, practices and approaches that are at risks of becoming extinct.

In 2021, the ABC launched an 'innovation challenge' focused on Improving Livelihoods for Informal Cross Border Traders and borderland Trading Communities. The goal of the Innovation Challenge was to curate, experiment and upscale local borderland innovations that have become the lynchpin of entrepreneurship culture, which has sustained Informal Cross-Border Trade (ICBT). The social innovation ideas are focused on digitization of funding and logistics chain; upscaling e-payment capabilities of all thrift and credit societies; and improving products value chain through digitization. In implementing four innovative ideas across ten African countries, ABC Staff immersed themselves in the borderlands space for sensing and collective intelligence exercises. A significant lesson learned in this process was the awareness of a wide array of innovative practices that have contributed to the resilience and survival of borderland communities. The immersion exercises also illuminated the opportunities to uncover the strengths and catalyze the borderlands' development to attain the Agenda 2030, as encapsulated in the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Therefore, the pathways identified for future investments in the borderlands are agriculture and pastoralism, informal cross border trade, infrastructure, and social cohesion.

Based on lessons learned in the interaction with borderland communities, the ABC in 2022 developed a portfolio approach for area-based programming in the borderlands, focused on the four pillars as follows:

Pillar I: Strengthen agriculture and livestock production productivity and enhance associated value and supply chains.

Pillar II: Provide access to finance, support entrepreneurship and strengthen the capacity of micro and small enterprises.

Pillar III: Invest in climate-resilient small infrastructure to enhance production and trade.

Pillar IV: Strengthen vertical and horizontal social cohesion.

These pillars provide entry points for the ABC to partner with the borderland stakeholders to enhance their resilience. An essential element in the partnerships is the elevation of the borderlands innovators' voices to tell their stories on how solutions have been provided to address challenges confronting them.

In the light of the foregoing, the ABC seeks the services of qualified Behavioral Communications or Research Firms to map and develop a comprehensive brochure (compendium) of the innovative solutions to socio-economic challenges in the borderlands.
