Terms Of Reference for Pricing Agent

Background

A place-to-place survey entails price data collection by a pricing agent in retail outlets patronized by the UN staff members. It is carried out at least once every three to five years in all locations where staff of the UN system are stationed. The United Nations' International Civil Service Commission (ICSC) has scheduled a place-to-place survey for Gaborone, Botswana for February 2024.

Duties and Responsibilities

On behalf of the ICSC and under the direct supervision of the Survey Coordinator, the pricing agent will be responsible for the following duties:

- Before the beginning of the survey, review all the documents provided directly or via the survey support microsite https://surveys.unicsc.org/cold especially the "Instructions for the Pricing Agent" and "Instructions for the Pricing Agent Target Brands"
- Review the list of items to be priced as well as their specifications, to assess their availability in the local market; and document any variances and observations in the Pricing Forms
- Develop a strategic plan for data collection, and collect prices from the list of stores/outlets (with complete addresses) provided by the Survey Coordinator
- Ensure that collected prices are from the approved list of outlets and conform with the item specifications
- Record in a legible and complete manner the price data in the Pricing Agent Pricing Book and Prescription Medication Pricing Form
- Complete the Pricing Agent Questionnaire on the general market conditions as well as the pricing activities
- Submit the Pricing documents, including the Pricing Book, and the completed questionnaire on local market conditions, to the Survey Coordinator by the end of the pricing activities
- Remain available to respond to queries and requests for clarifications from the ICSC or the Survey Coordinator regarding specific price quotations or generally about the price data collection exercise
